

TRANSFORMATIONAL BIBLE STUDY

What does it say?

Starting with one chapter in the Bible, read and ask God to speak to you. When something begins to stand out, ask “What does it say?”. Then write it down.

What does it mean?

Ask yourself “What does this mean?” as you consider what the original writer was saying to the original audience. Consider the cultural context. Then write it down.

What does it mean to me?

This is where the Holy Spirit will apply this word to you personally and present an opportunity to step into a place where you encounter him and experience his presence and power. Write it down.

What am I to do?

This is where I yield my heart to God’s spoken word, experience his presence, and receive his grace (the willingness and power) to do what he’s asking me to do. My obedience connects with his power and there is then a manifestation of his kingdom around me as his will is being done “on earth as it is in heaven”.

Who am I to tell?

This is where God will use me to speak to others. By sharing this word and testimony of what God is doing I am bringing the kingdom of God to others. God will often bring it to mind as a prophetic word to others in my path.
